Secret Of Pio Junco's Beautiful Glazes Proves To Be Painstaking Work

By BOB KALLER

A fresh breeze in the art waters of the Monterey Peninsula, Pio Junco has managed to stir more than a casual ripple of interest since his arrival a scant half year ago.

There are several reasons for this. In the first place, Junco's long, lantern-jawed Spanish faces with the beautiful glazes are in a tradition not often seen in this area. His bewitching women could well come directly from Madrid, although they seem right at home in these old haunts of the Spanish conquistadores.

In addition, unlike many of the youngsters who come to the Peninsula to study painting, Junco came as a professional product with a long career in Eastern art circles behind him.

Junco, born in Spain in 1914, was slated for a medical career, and took a pre-med degree at the University of Madrid, without much enthusiasm. He had often helped his father, who was an architect, with blueprints, the work somehow instilled an interest in drawing. Idly sketching for many years, he had begun to paint seriously his last year in high school, and at the university found himself painting far more than studying.

Also during this time, Junco suddenly won one of Spain's top Independent Salon prizes, and with it the offer of a scholarship to study in the U. S. and South America. His father persuaded him to refuse the offer in order not to leave the family, but as a sort of recompense, opposition to his painting full-time ceased—and this is what he did from that time on.

The political storms were gathering in Spain by this time, and although Junco's family did not participate in politics, it began to be ever more apparent that civil warfare was just a matter of time. Consequently in 1936, Junco's father shipped the entire family to the United States, and staying behind himself to keep an eye on the family properties.

Till 1939 Pio drifted rather aimlessly, not quite certain that the family would not return to Spain at any moment, but by 1939 it had become apparent that the future rested where he was. Abruptly then, he began to go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art to study the Old Masters, whom he had dismissed as "old fogies" up to that time.

For four solid years Pio came to work with the employees at 9:00 o'clock in the morning and left with them at 6:00 o'clock at night, copying and studying. On Saturdays he was only there half a day, "because" he adds laughingly, "they used to throw me out then."

By 1944 Junco's style began to jell. While formerly he had painted with what he calls "audacity—big brush strokes—and in a loose manner", he began to apply intelligence to his work, he claims, and to tighten up his control of what he was doing.

He became fascinated by the Flemish and Dutch painters, particularly Frans Hals, who had a precision about their work that he thought impressive.

Pio also began to experiment with glazing. "Glazing", says Junco flatly, "is perhaps the most difficult part of painting." (Glazing is, incidentally, the application of color by transparency.) It should be done at least 40 times, says Junco, and if one has the patience of color that is unique, Junco points out that Tintoretto, for example, claimed that only after the fortieth application of glaze could one begin to arrive at

Let the rains come! Eben Whittlesey, Carmel Attorney (and Pine Cone Music Critic) finished the roof on the extension he is building on two bedrooms of his home this week. He had so much success and fun building a storeroom addition to his garage last summer that he undertook the more ambitious job this year, "under the general supervision of a pro, Sydney Williams; I'm just the laborer," Eben insists.

"Laborer" Whittlesey working after office hours and week ends, did the excavation, built the forms for the foundation, built the floor joists, laid the subfloor, built most of the frame, did all of the roofing and the exterior finish. He has been working on the roof, far into the night, in a race with the rains. Lack of daylight is no problem for Eben who has been blind since college days. He is also a starlight gardener.

He is a board member of the County Symphony Assn., sings in the Bach Festival Chorus, has just finished a year's presidency of the Carmel Lions Club. He is the husband of Mary, the father of Deborah, and the son of Mrs. Granville Whittlesey who also has her home in Carmel.

High Mesa Opens Friday Night At Forest Theater

High Mesa, first original play presented on the peninsula in four years, opens tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock in the Guild Hall of the Forest Theater. It will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday, October 21, 22 and 23 and October 28, 29 and 30.

Written by Ron Bostwick of Carmel, this drama concerns a tragic incident in the lives of a talented and closeknit family.

The central figure is that of Mark MacMartin, a tired, brilliant and wry retired physicist, played by Dr. Douglas MacFarlane.

The housekeeper and mistress is the charming Serena, portrayed by Gracecarol Kearney.

A trio of Taos-type artists and dilettantes is represented by Jan Ford, Lynn Tucker and Eric Borg. The three children of Mark are played by Floyd Adams, Jr., Elaine Feuerborn and Brian O'Brian.

New Local Chamber Music Group Give First Concert, Free

The Carmel Chamber Music Society, first presented by the Musical Arts Club last spring in a concert for woodwinds and piano, will give a free concert on Sunday at 8:00 o'clock in the Carmel Craft Studios. This group, organized and directed by Gilbert Boyer is comprised of woodwinds, strings, vocal soloists and piano. The program includes a Telemann composition for oboe, flute, cello and piano; the Cesar Franck Quintet for strings and solo piano, a Beethoven sonata for French horn and piano and a group of songs for voice and chamber ensemble.

The players in this concert are Gilbert Boyer, Joseph Axup, Patty and Lloyd Clapper, George Beck, David Hagemeyer, Marie Sale, Ted Kuster, Brad Buckminster, and John Burr. They are familiar to the music-loving people of the Peninsula through their participation in the Monterey Symphony Orchestra, the Bach Festival, and the Carmel Studios of Music.

DOUGLAS SHORT DIES

Douglas Short died this morning of a heart attack in his Sausalito home. He complained of feeling ill last night and consulted his physician. He was in his early fifties.

He is survived by his wife, Kay, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Goringe of Carmel; a daughter, Mrs. Neil Weston of Carmel Highlands, and three sons, John Short of Monterey, Bill Short of Kentfield and Erik Short of Berkeley.

Douglas Short has been dividing his time between Sausalito and his Big Sur home since he left here 15 years ago.

Planner Reports Progress

At a study session of the Carmel Planning Commission yesterday, Planning Consultant Larry Livingston, Jr., presented a progress report on his work on a master plan for Carmel.

A six foot square map affixed to the wall behind Planning Commission Chairman Frank Putnam, was the base map of the planning area to which other maps would be affixed as special surveys are completed, Livingston explained. One of these, a land use survey, is already in progress. Another map, combination blue print-aerial photograph of the route of the proposed freeway through Hatton Canyon, about eight feet long, he unrolled on the planning table with the warning that Highway Engineer E. J. L. Peterston considered it still an "unapproved" route, subject to change.

Livingston said he was making a population study in which School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell is assisting. The 1950 census does not give a satisfactory picture. Livingston is making a house count while Mitchell is providing family size statistics and childrens' age estimates.

City Engineer Clayton Neill is furnishing him with drainage and typographic information. He is also gathering information on the public land and facilities in the planning area.

In December he will go into shopping facilities and parking studies. "The police department has been most co-operative in making traffic counts, which have been going on periodically since spring."

The citizens committee will be asked in January to have the answers ready to the 20 questions he posed last month as a guide in a formulation of policy; at this time he wants the planning commission to arrive at their decision on "community objectives."

After some discussion as to whether or not the citizens committee meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock with Livingston, should be given an agenda, it was decided that so capable a body could be left free to carry on its activities in any way it saw fit."

Hearing Is Next Move In Three New Zoning Amendments

The City Council, in full strength, met on Monday afternoon in a session adjourned from October 17 to deal with three amendments to the city zoning ordinance.

City Attorney Tom Perry presented the suggested revisions prepared as a result of recommendations by Planning Consultant Larry Livingston, Jr., and presented to the council by the Planning Commission. First reading of the amendments, which in no way invalidate existing zoning restrictions, was given after discussion.

The first revision states that no new business building may be constructed, nor an existing business

CARMEL FOOTBALL TEAMS AT KING CITY FRIDAY NIGHT

Buoyed up by a double win over the powerful Gilroy gridders, Carmel High's Varsity and JV squads journey to King City Friday night for a pair of league games with the beefy Mustangs. King City's Varsity got a big lift last Friday night, clipping the visiting Monterey Serra team, 39 to 6, for win number one for the current season. Although the Mustang heavies have lost three games, the opposition has been the best in the area. Hollister whipped them, 20 to 0, Paso Robles did the job, 27 to 7, and Gilroy blanked them, 22 to 0. Hollister, only common opponent for both King City and Carmel, whipped the Padres, 32 to 13.

King City will enjoy a decided weight advantage over the medium-sized Carmel gridders as the Mustang tackles average out at 235 pounds and there is plenty of beef at the other line positions. Speed is another factor favoring King City when sprinters Jess Harrison, Earl Bramhall, and Jim Campbell are turned loose in the backfield. The comparatively slow Padres will have to contain these speedsters at the line if they hope to stop the Mustang offense.

Carmel's well-balanced offense which has shown a fair mixture of ground attack and aerial fireworks will be manned by Dick Jennings and George Wightman, ends; Kyrk Reid and Pat Erwin, tackles; Bob Michela and Dick Ogden, guards; John Thompson, center; Mike Mosolf, quarterback; Captain West Whittaker and Clyde Klaumann, halfbacks, and Bill McCormack, fullback. Bob Frizzell, Syd Trevvett, Charley Dawson, Bob Wise and Brian Leidig will fill in with the defensive unit.

PADRES BLANK GILROY, 13 TO 0

Carmel High's small football squad turned giant-killer last Saturday afternoon, smashing top-ranked Gilroy, 13 to 0, to provide one of the biggest upsets in Northern California. Underdogs by three to six touchdowns, the fighting Padres failed to read the odds favoring the Mustangs and took charge from the opening kickoff to thoroughly outplay the visitors on both offense and defense. Before Saturday's game with Carmel, Gilroy was rated the number one team in Northern California for schools having under 600 students. Carmel was rated number five for schools having under 350 students.

Putting out a terrific team effort in which every player did an outstanding job, the Padres moved for two touchdowns in the first quarter and hung on with a tenacious defense to control the ever-dangerous Gilroy attack. Carmel's first score came early in the game when the power thrusts of McCormack, Klaumann, and Whittaker moved 48 yards to the Gilroy 14-yard line. From here, quarterback Mosolf rolled around end for the score. Jarring downfield blocks by John Thompson and Bill McCormack cleared the path for the elusive Padre quarterback. Kyrk Reid's conversion attempt was blocked and Carmel led 6-0. Following the next kickoff, Gilroy was forced to punt and the Padres took over on their own 38-yard line. From here, the McCormack-Klaumann-Whittaker combination smashed to a touchdown in 11 plays. West Whittaker went the remaining 18 yards after taking a pitchout from Mosolf. Reid's conversion was good and the scoring was finished for the day.

Gilroy's vaunted offense featuring the marvelous faking of quarterback Ron Leonti was well cased by the alert Carmel defense and the visitors were held to a pair of first downs during the first half. Alertness of the Padre defense is shown by the fact that the Mustangs completed only one pass during the entire game. Led by Captain Dick Ogden who quarterbacked the defense from his linebacker spot, the defensive unit tackled with authority and met the Mustang strength at the point of attack. Not since the days of Tom Handley have Carmel halfbacks tackled with the slashing power demonstrated by West Whittaker and Clyde Klaumann last Saturday. When the Mustang backs showed through the line the alert Padre secondary men were there to greet them.

In registering Carmel High's greatest football win, it was the terrific team play of the 22-man squad which was outstanding. All the following players saw action and did their job well: Dick Ogden, Ron Huffman, Charley Dawson, Bill McCormack, Bob Wise, George Wightman, Bob Frizzell, Pat Erwin, Brian Leidig, Harry Baxter, Kyrk Reid, Merv Sutton, Dick Jennings, John Thompson, Mike Meheen, Syd Trevvett, John Mason, Mike Mosolf, West Whittaker, Dick Holt, Clyde K'aumann, and Bob Michela.

CARMEL HIGH JV SQUAD WINS EIGHT STRAIGHT

Victors in their last four games during the '54 season and winners of four straight this season, the Carmel High School junior-varsity football squad is developing some sound grid material which should grow into fine varsity timber next year. Last Saturday afternoon, Coach Rainer's peppy squad ripped apart the Gilroy Ponies for a 12-0 victory which kept them atop the junior-varsity standings in the B division of the CCAL.

The Little Padres outplayed the visiting Gilroy junior-varsity for most of the game and established game control as early as the second quarter when Jim Konrad zipped into the end zone for a six-pointer. In the third quarter, the Padrecitos hit the scoreboard again as Charley Leavitt smashed four yards on a quick-opener. While Carmel piled up huge chunks of real estate by running and passing, the visitors were completely shackled on the ground and had to go to the air lanes to get any advances.

Big game for Coach Rainer's Ramblers is slated for tomorrow night at King City when they tackle the unbeaten blue and white Ponies.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Tie This One For Consideration—

Closed the office early last Saturday to go after pheasants with Pops Foster. I used fewer shells than the old gentleman and took home more birds—but not because I did better shooting.

I'd borrowed a dog for the occasion. Pops took along Blue, his ancient pointer. Several times I noticed Pops walk up to a clump of bushes Blue had pointed at and fire into the air—though he hadn't flushed a single bird.

Naturally, I wanted to know why. "Well," he said sheepishly, "I've been hunting with that dog for 11 seasons. His nose isn't much help any more—but I'd rather waste a shell than let him know."

From where I sit, Pops always shows consideration for people, too. For instance, this is a small thing, but he puts a bottle of beer on ice for me when I visit him—though he never takes anything but coffee himself. Even if he doesn't agree with me on a matter of personal choice (which is his right) he'd rather not make a "point" of letting me know.

building altered for a new business, unless approval is obtained from the Planning Commission.

Secondly, the new business building and the building in which it will be housed must be compatible in appearance, and of the same general use, as other businesses and buildings in the general area. That the question of parking and loading zones may be considered in establishing a new business in an area also fell under the jurisdiction of the second amendment.

Thirdly, any two members of the council may now bring an appeal against any decision of the Planning Commission before the whole body of the council. Previously only the applicant who had been denied permission or 20 electors could present such an appeal to the council for consideration.

On the suggestion of the city attorney that the proposed amendments be temporary, and in operation only while the master plan was being made and the existing zoning ordinance re-written in accordance with the proposed master plan, the council agreed that a two year time limit be put on the three amendments.

The Planning Commission, at their meeting Wednesday afternoon will set a date for a public hearing on the amendments. Mayor Horace Lyon and Councilman John Chitwood, although voting for the amendments on Monday afternoon, are still doubtful about them, and are looking to public expression at the hearing for guidance from the citizens. Following the public hearing, a second reading of the amendments will be given at the next council meeting, when the city council will take a final vote.

Elfie Baltzley

The sudden and unexpected death of Mrs. Elfie Baltzley occurred on Wednesday morning, less than two months after the death of her sister, Mrs. Jose Edna Stevens.

For the past four years, Mrs. Baltzley and Mrs. Stevens have been co-managers of the Sundial Apartments, and, following the death of her sister, Mrs. Baltzley had been running the business alone.

Survivors are three nieces, Mrs. Richard Eldred of Pacific Grove, Mrs. Richard Boise, Bellevue, Washington and Mrs. George Kenneth Brigham of St. Charles, Illinois.

Funeral arrangements will be in charge of Paul Mortuary and as yet the date has not been announced.

Captain Allen Recuperating

Captain Archer M. R. Allen has been home for a week, after being released from the Corona Naval Hospital in Norco, California, where he was hospitalized for five days following an automobile accident at Newport Beach. Captain Allen was driving alone at the time of the crash but fortunately Mrs. Allen was a passenger in the car ahead and so he got prompt attention for his injuries which consisted of a cracked rib, slight concussion and a lamed shoulder.

Julius Wahl

Julius Wahl died unexpectedly in his sleep on October 13 at Hidden Villa Ranch in Los Altos, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Duveneck, where he had lived since the death of his wife in 1944.

He was one of the few makers of harpsichords and clavichords in the United States. His instruments were lovingly designed and created of fine materials in his shop on the Duveneck Ranch and he was never too busy to show interested persons, especially children, how his work was done.

Each year Julius Wahl came to Carmel to attend the Bach Festival where his instruments were played and his sympathetic personality, his kindly face beneath his soft white hair endeared him to all who knew him. He also enjoyed the parties after the performances and would, on occasion, play his zither for the company.

He is survived by his son, Max Wahl of Sacramento, and two grandchildren. Musical services were held for him at Hidden Villa Ranch on Sunday afternoon.

Candida's Camera

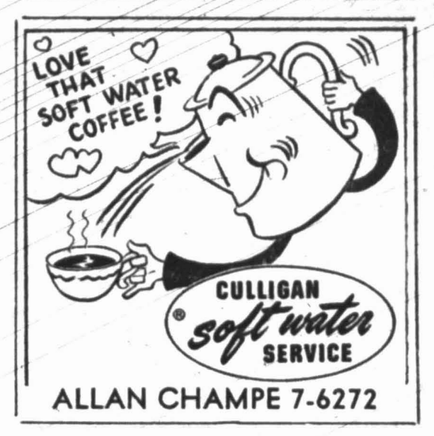

Something long longed for in the Carmelorama is to be unwrapped Sunday evening at 8:00 o'clock, when a completely indigenous, Gilbert Boyer-nurtured ensemble group, the Carmel Chamber Music Society, is to show its mettle in the Carmel Craft Studios, and strings, woodwinds, and horn will sound amid the Voices of Silence (that name which Andre Malraux has indelibly affixed to the "language of the arts"). The concert, though not the coffee, is free, along with all the other Best Things in Life.

This first shot out of the darkroom depicts Guiding Hand Gilbert Boyer at the perfectly grand piano, rehearsing a Telemann number with Symphony players, Lloyd and Patty Clapper, as handsome a husband and wife team as ever handsomely blended an oboe and a flute. Behind them stands Louise Boyer (who runs the painting school there) and Doris Ormsby (who handblocks fabrics under the same roof) and they are holding up a length of one of Doris's delightful work against the wall behind the piano, in an effort to arrive at a background that wouldn't consist of a Dutch door and the display window of the Pastel Portrait studio. This second negative disclosed Erica Franke's negative reaction to using this lively textile for the purpose: "Too busy!" she's saying. And fortunately, Erica is not Too Busy, herself creating her intriguing stone tiles there, to toss in some advice, for this pencil-slim, be-spectacled, be-jeaned, black-haired "gamin" of a girl is certainly the most inspired stage designer within our budding grove!

Here, reclining in one of the Hubba Hubba chairs by the fireplace-in-the-round, taking a detached view of the proceedings, is that delicately eloquent, fluidly graceful darling of Theatre-in-the-Rounders, Flavia Flavin, recently returned from ramblings on the Continent, and she has a long, wide-striped scarf wound interestingly around her shoulders and diagonalling down through the belt of her tapering slacks. Standing talking to her in the other pair of long tapering slacks (they're black velveteen) is Marie Short, long a Carmelight, who looks like a sophisticated gypsy, and is much more fluent than most of us in that "language of the arts," fine and applied, silent and audible. Those two Dark Men, who look like something in a gypsy's crystal ball, are Craft Studio artists, Fred Klepich and Cush Walker. The one with the iron grey crewcut is sculptor Clarence Bates, lately a president of the Carmel Art Association, who now does much of his significant whittling here in these lively precincts.

On Sunday night, this firelight and considerable candle power will flicker on informal groups of people listening to the above-mentioned Telemann opus, a Brahms sonata for the French horn, a group of songs with string obligato, and the Cesar Franck Quintet. There will be no searchlight playing against the sky to mark the premier of this New Group in this new setting, but how right it seems that in the Craft Studios, the craft of music-making should also be represented at regular intervals!

And may I seize this paragraph to remind you that if you enjoy singing elsewhere than under a hot shower, Gilbert Boyer is amassing a large group to sing the Messiah on December 11, and they rehearse every Tuesday night in Sunset School. No experience necessary! —mls

Shore Leave . . .

(This is the second part of Kurt von Meier's letter home to his mother, Mrs. Julian von Meier. Kurt has been on active duty in the Navy in the Pacific. He is now in San Diego and expected home for Thanksgiving.)

Finally we went over a ridge, then dropped down a few feet to the shores of Lake Yamanaka, the end of the line for us, though the bus goes on to Fuji—Yoshida. The vegetation is different here than lower down. The lake is about as high as Yosemite Valley with somewhat the same trees: pines primarily, though with an abundance of other conifers. We walked a mile along a road around the edge of the lake till we came to the Fuji New Grand Hotel, with its old English architecture, just like a resort hotel in the States.

It's a good sized hotel, big lobby with a high ceiling, plush rugs and leather chairs, like I remember the Soda Springs.

After we got our rooms, $3.00 with private bath, we rented motor scooters and drove around the lake, which took about an hour and a half. It's about the size of Fallen Leaf Lake and has boat houses and little piers. The forest comes right down to the beach all around it.

Back at the hotel, we had the fifty cent dinner, the most expensive! Had a nice steak with all the trimmings. Second helping: no charge!

Woke up about 6:00 a.m. to see Fuji very briefly. The day before, it was shrouded in an overcast so we couldn't even tell where it was—until late afternoon when we caught our first glimpse of it, although we were actually almost on the side of the mountain!

The breakfast wasn't being served till 7:30 so I took a walk down to the boat house and out on the pier where the Jap boat boy was fishing. The sun had risen but had not come up over the ridge—so the lake was in shadow and still, only a light breeze blowing. Very pretty, with a few boats out on the lake with people fishing. Walked all around the hotel, then went back and had breakfast with Reynolds and the jar-heads who were pretty nice guys. Really had worked up an appetite, so I ate a dish of apricots, glass of orange juice, four slices of cinnamon toast, three poached eggs on toast with link sausages, coffee and potatoes. Price: 15c! Delicious, too!

We just relaxed all morning. Lost a dollar on the slot machines—played a little pool and ping pong, soaked up some sun when it came out, and enjoyed the fresh mountain air and the cool temperatures, the first real relief from all the heat and humidity of the last months.

Had a barbecued beef sandwich for lunch, then had to check out of the room before 1:00 p.m. Bought some post cards and mailed them, then we caught a bus back to Otemba. The sun played hide and seek all the way back to Ofuna. We switched trains again there, but got off at Kamakura. Walked across town and saw the eleven faced goddess and the great bronze Buddha, the Dai-butsu, just at sunset. Window shopped on the way back to the train station, and bought an ivory choker for a possible Christmas gift.

Back in Yokosuka we went into the big E.M. Club and had dinner—a good prime rib. On the way I bought a fishing rod of split bamboo.

The next morning a rated liberty, so was determined to see Tokyo. Got off the ship at 9:00 and headed out for the Yokosuka train station. I saw Steve Costakis from Monterey, who was in the reserves with me. Got caught in downpour, and though I had a rain coat on, I was drenched. After going all over town trying to change some money into yen—the Navy of course didn't provide—at 10:30 I was on my way. Went to Ofuna, then north to Yokohama, then to Tokyo.

Tokyo is very westernized. Just like a big State side city. I walked down to the Ginza and window shopped. It wasn't raining, but my shoes were soggy. Saw the Imperial Hotel, the Palace, Dai Ichi Building, and all the sights.

Finally caught a train back to Yokohama.

We got underway the next morning and it was raining cats and dogs.

There is one thing I will remember about Japan though that is not quite as pleasant as the others. That is the intense stare the people gave you. It was a while before I actually figured out what it meant. It conveyed far too much emotion to be mere curiosity. It was actually a look of hatred!

Maybe I was going overboard when I noticed this, but Reynolds said he saw the same thing. Hatred really isn't the right word, revenge may be better. When they noticed you watching them, the people staring broke into the oriental grin of embarrassment, no doubt thought to be a friendly grin by most tourists. When I first realized this feeling of the Japanese for Americans, it was so easy to understand the riots that have taken place.

I got all the Pine Cones and the cookies. Read articles in the Pine Cone about this gal who "just loves Tokyo," Katie Schlepp. I wonder if she has ever been away from the taxis, elevators and paved streets of down town—or better yet, if she has ever used her eyes to see anything more than one could observe in a roadshow version of the Mikado.

Well, so be it—I guess there were people who thought the same way before 1941!

The first day out of port was wet, but other than that not too bad. On Friday we really hit the weather though. There was a low pressure area that had developed into a tropical storm and was now a full fledged typhoon named Joan. She was headed for us on our way to Pearl, and south, moving north. We put on speed to cross in front of her; so Saturday morning we moved into the right front quadrant, the most dangerous one. The seas really got rough Saturday: we did over 30 degree rolls, and were pitching so that no one was allowed upon deck on the forward part of the ship.

I went upon the 05 level, some 70-80 feet above the water line and watched the bow slap down into the waves and send up a towering geyser of spray that was blown back into my face—some of it blown still higher. The waves were only 25-30 feet high, though, so it wasn't too bad. Down in the mess hall it was hard to eat. The decks were wet, and guys kept slipping, also your trays slipped so you had to grab a bite, then quick, lift up one side of your tray about a foot off the table to keep the contents from spilling out, then eat and reverse the procedure with the other side of the tray.

One thing is that work is very difficult under these circumstances and the incessant rocking makes you sleepy, so most of the guys spend the time in their sacks if they can get away with it. That is what the print shop has been doing. Read an excellent short story by Nathaniel Hawthorne Rappascini's Daughter. Also a little Dickens, Henry James and de Maupassant for diversion. A certain air of apathy pervades the ship which, under the present circumstances, makes serious concentration a near impossibility—I am quite sure this is only a temporary condition, the effect of the rolling, the heat, and monotony.

The full moon was out the other night and the sky almost completely free from overcast, so that the storm waves were absolutely magnificent. A 40-50 mile per hour wind sends the spindrift wisping into dispersion. Upon breaking, the wave is an unbelievably brilliant blue-light blue, yet intense.

We passed Nihoa rocks, this noon, Saturday, and will pass Kauai and Mihau tonight. We plan to arrive in Pearl Harbor at 0800, and liberty commences at 1300. I certainly hope it isn't raining in Honolulu like it did in Japan — but I doubt it.

POLOMONIUM
(Jacob's Ladder)

Here the ascending granite, sheer of line,
Has spurned the gentler contours of the hill
To rise in rhomboid masses to the sky.
Beyond the line of timber and of green
The rock is tilted upward, tier on tier,
And in the crannies grow the rarer flowers,
The precious alpines in their natural gardens
Walled off from all encroaching commonness.
And here the daring climber for his prize
On patience and endurance may accost
The azure polomonium of the heights:
Goal of his striving, steeple of his faith.
This he may take, just one, by mountain law,
Stick in his cap for feather and descend
Wearing the fragrant sky-flower of the summit.

—DORA HAGEMEYER.

SEASON

Now winter enters without love
The door of the revolving year,
And gives a last, cold-shouldered shove
To autumn life that lingered here.
Leaves hurry off the shivering trees
And leave as skeleton the vine
Where late we dined in bare-armed ease
And watched an evening star decline:
White Venus, that the storms now hide.
That is no star for fireside.

—J. S. MOODEY.

THROUGH THE DARK CRYSTAL

through the veil gardenias rise, glide and rise like forgotten thoughts tossed on crystal-flector of a sea.

sundown and the waters,
and yesterday gathers the light—
gathers the irresistible colors of sky and sea, and sunset.
and a grey fog rolls over . . .
sight cannot see what may be the curve of then,
the shape of future.

only the scent of sea comes,
the salty sea,
and thought forms

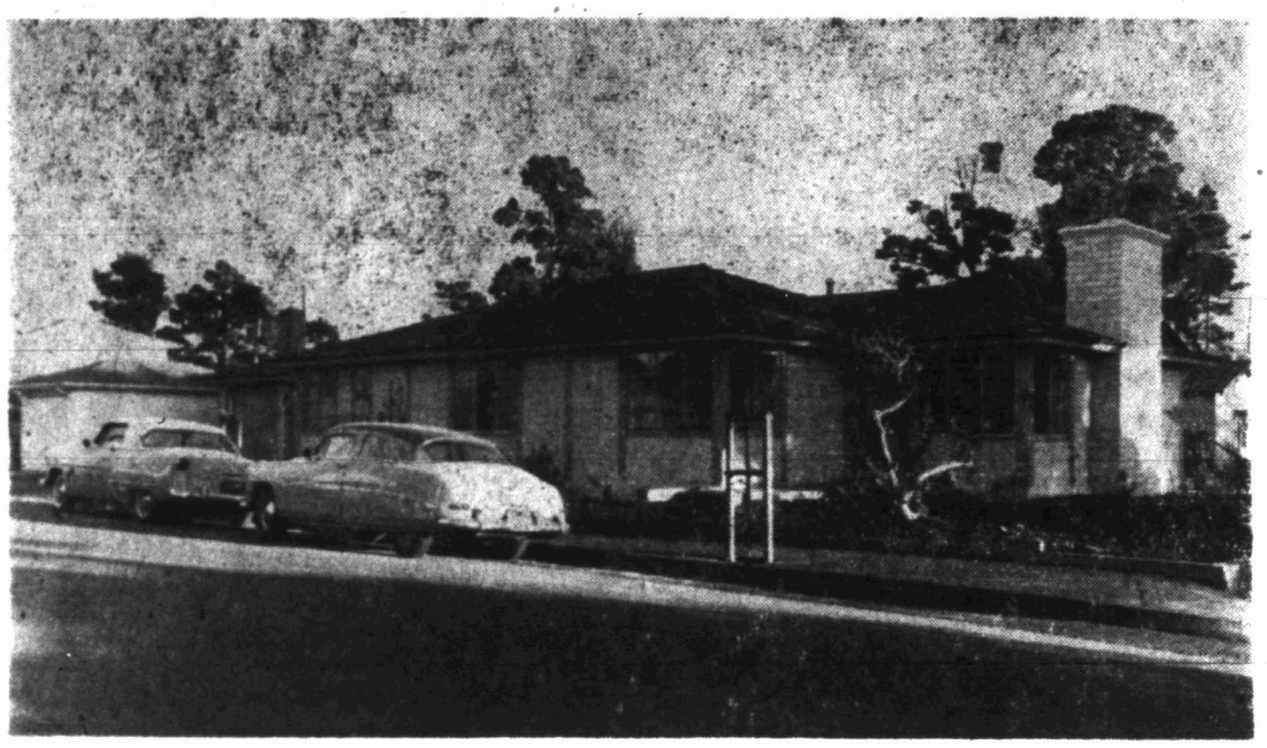

through the veil, through the crystal glass:
a sunrise,
and gardenias,
white gardenias floating sunset . . . sunrise . . . endlessly.

CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA CHAPTER

ANNUAL REPORT 1954-55 OCTOBER 20, 1955

BUILDING COMMITTEE REPORT

By Helen Heavey, Chairman

Way back in 1940 the Carmel Chapter purchased a building in the business district through popular subscription. This was done to house its activities which at that time consisted mostly of sewing, or Production, and Home Service. There had been many and exhausting moves to various vacant stores and buildings all of which were temporary and inadequate, so when all were brought under one roof, everyone rightfully rejoiced.

Shortly after the new headquarters was occupied it became the center of war efforts in Carmel, with a Surgical Dressing unit, Prisoner of War activities, a stepped up Home Service program and all the necessary operations to maintain contact between the military man and his worrying family.

At war's end, activities were curtailed appreciably and the erstwhile crowded building became far too large for Chapter operations. So, most of it was then rented and the Chapter activities compressed into a small part of it.

With the return to normal civilian life and the influx of new people to Carmel, real estate in the business area became very desirable. And at the same time it was not essential that the Chapter remain in that area. Therefore, after a great deal of thought and discussion it was decided that the sale of the building and the purchase of property adjoining the business area would enable the Chapter to be more comfortably and adequately housed in a building designed for the operational purpose peculiar to Red Cross.

Since the purchase of the original building the American National Red Cross had established a policy forbidding any Chapter using funds collected from the public for housing, nor to solicit funds for that specific purpose. So Carmel Chapter was indeed fortunate in owning its building.

As this new building, like its predecessor must have title vested in the name of American National Red Cross, that body was advised of the desires of the Chapter and unqualified consent was given when the Chapter proved its ability to buy a property and construct a building entirely from funds derived from the sale of its property.

A property was purchased at the corner of 8th and Dolores, which consisted of lots, one with a small house on it. This was later sold, leaving the Chapter with a single lot on the corner. Next, in June, the Chapter house was sold and with the proceeds from this sale and that of the small house, enough was realized completely to cover the cost of building the new headquarters.

Accordingly, the new Chapter House, designed in detail for the functions of your Chapter was constructed at the cost of $22,000. The property on which the building stands cost the Chapter $7,600, and the balance of $4,400 will cover the cost of the necessary furnishings and landscaping.

CHAPTER CHAIRMAN

By Gwendolyn Nielsen

Being Chairman of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Chapter of the American Red Cross gives one a feeling of the true essence of Red Cross, a volunteer organization run by volunteers. It is a fine experience to feel the complete support behind every effort. From the other officers through the Executive Committee, the Board of Directors, the various Service Chairmen, all the volunteers including each door-to-door Fund Drive campaigner, this is a well integrated, cooperative set-up.

The various Service Chairmen change from time to time. There always seems to remain a nucleus of old timers to assist and indoctrinate the new-comers until they in turn are old-timers. This continuity gives strength to the overall program.

May I particularly call your attention to the report of the Building Committee. It is especially important that we all thoroughly understand the mechanics of obtaining our new Chapter House to which we are all so looking forward.

The fact that Carmel is very much a Red Cross town was dramatically pointed out in our recent call for special assistance in the Eastern flood disaster. We can be most proud of and grateful to our community for enabling us to send the national organization nearly seven times more than the $700 for which we were asked as our minimum share in this emergency.

I wish to express my deep gratitude to all with whom I have worked and say it has truly been a pleasant and rewarding experience. With the new building nearing completion and the ambulance rolling and insured all seems serene.

Two Monterey Peninsula residents, cartoonist Hank Ketcham, and golfer Lawson Little, Jr., sign up at the Pebble Beach Golf Links for National Golf Day with Mrs. Eleanor Poyer, Mrs. Ralph Castagna and Carmel Red Cross director, Frank Putnam. The Red Cross will this year benefit from the proceeds.

GRAY LADIES

By Isabelle M. Terhune, Chairman

During the past year thirteen Gray Ladies have served 2,636 hours at Fort Ord Hospital, Monday evenings and Tuesday afternoons.

The book, magazine and craft carts go out regularly each week.

Birthday parties are held on wards and a beautiful cake is presented to the birthday patient.

Parties are arranged, games played and prizes awarded.

The flowers, donated by Carmel residents, are made into lovely little bouquets by Production Service of the chapter and placed on patient's bedside tables.

Two Gray Ladies, especially trained, work on the neuro-psychiatric ward.

Several Gray Ladies instruct patients in making recordings.

A Gray Lady accompanies the station wagon on the weekly off-post trip to explain the points of interest around the peninsula to the patients.

A new service has been inaugurated this year. Tea for the women's ward.

On May 1, seven new Gray Ladies were graduated at exercises held at Fort Ord, as follows: Mrs. Roxanna Blanks, Mrs. Anita Dormody, Mrs. Barbara Kreisler, Miss Hazel McClellan, Mrs. Georgia Martin, Mrs. Eleanor Mott and Mrs. Zelta Silva.

BLOOD PROGRAM

By Helen Heavey, Chairman

As of July first of this year the blood program became an entirely civilian operation. And of that date we became completely dependent upon ourselves to supply the blood for our local use. With the withdrawal of the Department of Defense and its attendant collection of blood from the military establishments, the stark facts were revealed that military drawings not only supplied blood for military hospitals, a stockpile of plasma for the Department of Defense, but often supplemented the always lean civilian supply.

Now the military draws only enough blood for military hospitals. And now civilians are charged with the responsibility of supplying all blood used in civilian hospitals. We in Carmel are asked to have four blood drawings a year to supply our hospital. To date, we have just made our quota. As we use just about each of the 90 pints we draw, we are indeed fortunate. It is our sincere hope that we can maintain that balance, as the possibility of exceeding the quota and establishing a comfortable margin for emergencies seems much less than dim.

THE FORT ORD COUNCIL

By Mrs. R. R. Wallace, Chairman

The business of the monthly meetings of the Fort Ord Council is in the hands of council members, who are chairmen of E. & S. from each of the seven chapters.

Our Miss James, of the Carmel Chapter, deserves a vote of thanks for keeping the Council pro-rating system up to date—no easy task.

We express gratitude to Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services for gifts to U. S. Army Hospital for Christmas and Overseas packages, also for their prompt response to our appeal twice a year—May and November—toward our weekly supply of 100 dozen cookies and 100 bunches of table-side bouquets weekly for one month.

Our gratitude is also extended to the Legion Auxiliary, various church organizations and clubs.

The Christmas celebration is the most spectacular of the year. Naturally—All other festive days and holidays are remembered in turn with assistance from Jr. Red Cross.

Three birthday cakes a week the year around are supplied by one of the seven chapters in turn every month.

There is great need for a baby-grand piano in the recreation hall. The old one, donated in 1942, can barely stand on its old legs.

The officers in charge have expressed a need for entertainment in the wards on Sundays from 2:00 to 4:15 o'clock and week-days from 7:00 to 8:45 o'clock. They suggest an accordionist or pianist to play popular music, with a singer to lead community singing. Also a quartet would be welcomed. It is also desired that community organizations sponsor Recreation Hall or ward Bingo parties, with light refreshments. At present, American Legion representatives from Carmel, Monterey, Watsonville give Bingo parties regularly once a month. Cartoonists and sketch artists would also be welcomed to the wards.

The hospital should be notified two weeks in advance in order to have this type of entertainment properly scheduled.

AQUATIC TEACHERS

Allen "Buz" Knight, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Knight, and Joy Ware, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Ware, applied to the Carmel Chapter and were accepted as candidates for water safety instructors to be trained at the Red Cross National Aquatic School at Lake Tulequoia, near Fresno. Both completed the course with flying colors and returned to help with the local summer swimming program, Joy as water front director for the Carmel summer day camp and Buz at the high school.

Tulequoia is one of five aquatic schools operated by the national organization in the Pacific area for training instructors

NURSE'S AIDES

By Constance P. Low, Chairman

Although there are only seven active Nurse's Aides, they are able to activate the curtailed blood program and are ready to serve in a crisis. I appreciate the cheerful response of the old-timers, whenever they are called on to serve.

FUND DRIVE

By Robert C. Cairns

In submitting my report of the 1955 Fund Campaign, I wish to offer sincere thanks to the many volunteers for a splendid job of soliciting, to the Chairmen of the different divisions for their untiring efforts and to the office staff for handling Returns and compiling Records. All and all, a job well done. I should like to make special mention of Boy Scout Troop 86 Scout Master Herbert Blanks, who placed the flags on Ocean Avenue during the drive.

Our goal was $25,312.00. Collected as of June 30, $25,235.44. To National Red Cross $4,764.50. Retained by Carmel Red Cross $20,465.94.

A group of Borden's Dairy drivers who are among the most frequent visitors at the Mobile Blood Bank when it visits Carmel.

By Mrs. Mark Raggett, Chairman

The enrollment drive opened on October 1 with eight schools enrolling.

Among the various projects for the year were that of the Sunset School seventh and eighth grades, who made large Hallowe'en posters for the lobby of the hospital at Fort Ord.

Sunset juniors collected 150 tops of cans for Fort Ord, and the River school juniors have been busy painting cans for the soldiers' trays at Fort Ord.

At Christmas the High School Juniors beautifully decorated the Hospital lobby. Pictures of this were taken and appeared in local papers.

For New Years, the Woods and River Schools made 200 tray favors for Ord.

In January, the ever-popular First Aid classes were resumed at Sunset school for the seventh and eighth grades.

To date 131 gift boxes have been received from the schools to be sent overseas.

The Woods, Tularcitos, Bay and Carmelo Schools are filling school exhibit kits to be sent overseas.

An added attraction this year were some beautifully made wood checker boards donated by Mr. Howard Byrne's shop classes of Carmel High School for the soldiers at the Recreation Hall at Fort Ord.

Carmel Chapter was the host to the Regional Coordinating Council of the ten Red Cross chapters that compose the Santa Clara Valley Blood Center. At the speaker's table are Mrs. Walter Nielsen, Chapter Chairman, Mr. R. T. Van Metre, San Francisco Area Director, Miss Helen Heavey, Blood Program Chairman; (standing) Mr. R. W. Hoffman, Santa Cruz, Council Chairman; Mr. Tom Gill, San Francisco Area Office; Mrs. Fred Godwin, Co-chairman, Blood Program; and Mr. Walden Sampson, Field Representative.

OFFICE OF VOLUNTEERS

By Grace McKenney, Chairman

To make a complete report of the Office of Volunteers it would be necessary to mention each member of each service as everyone has surely contributed his share in making this past year a successful one for our Carmel Chapter. We have been urged to be brief in our report, so a general thank you to all volunteers will have to suffice.

We will start our next year with a charming and adequate new building, with an enthusiastic new group of officers, and with the steady purpose of the Red Cross; People helping people; before us.

The spirit of the Volunteers has been responsibile for the fine performances turned in by the various Services and, knowing this attitude will continue in our Chapter may I borrow a business phrase and say "Thanking you in advance."

FIRST AID

By Eleanor Poyer, Chairman

First Aid Chairman Eleanor Poyer and other instructors certificated a combined total of 178 Advanced, Standard and Jr. First Aid Pupils this year. This is the largest number of people certificated under the American Red Cross First Aid Program.

in water safety and first aid. The training is open to any person between the ages of 18 and 35 with the required background of training, teaching ability, qualities of leadership, and who plans to use his training in his community. The course at Tulequoia lasts ten days and is staffed by instructors who are tops in their fields. If approved by the chapter the tuition fee of 45 dollars is paid by the chapter.

Both our students reported that there was a group of almost 100 students from all over the west and, while the course was intensive, they had a lot of fun. The school director reported that we had sent him excellent students and we should be proud of them. We certainly are.

DISASTER COMMITTEE

By Hartland Law, Chairman

The past 12 month period has been successful for this Committee in that the Carmel Chapter area suffered no disaster. Our activities have been relatively light, confined for the most part to staff work.

The Committee is happy to report the appointment earlier this year of two co-chairmen: Mr. Malcolm Millard and Mr. William Gahagan, a couple of stalwart fellows who react well in emergencies. New names among the sub-committee chairmen are those of Mr. H. B. Blanks, who heads the Rescue Squad, and Mr. Paul McKinstry, who is well qualified as head of Purchase and Supply.

By way of progress this year our most important steps have been a closer working with Civil Defense. This has meant several meetings with Captain H. M. Gleason of Carmel and one meeting with the County C.D. officials in Monterey. The Disaster Committee took part in the Nationwide C.D. drill this summer. At another time the Civil Defense authorities conducted a survey for food, shelter, and clothing, and we helped them with information pertinent to our area.

The Chairman of this Committee feels that, although there was much work to be done this year, he did get some of it done, and he's grateful to all those who helped him.

HOME SERVICE

By Gwendolyn Nielsen, Chairman

The confidential nature of Home Service work makes it necessarily a dull report particularily when you consider how interesting and gratifying this work is. The case load for service to the military remains much the same as does our civilian Home Service program. The Loan Closet is always active and I believe would be even more so if the public realized all that is available to them through this service; hospital beds, wheel chairs, everything for sick room care and also things to help care for the visiting baby, crib, playpen, highchair, etc. These things are available on loan to anyone in the jurisdiction of your Red Cross. Miss James is a competent and sympathetic Home Service worker. It is a real pleasure to work with her.

VOLUNTEER REGISTERED NURSES

By Mrs. Gail Chandler, Chairman

The Registered Nurses of the Peninsula have given graciously of their time in the Blood Bank program.

Red Cross Nurses of the Carmel chapter have assisted in the Monterey Chapter and we have needed to call Monterey for nurses to staff our program. All together, nurses of the Carmel Chapter have donated 219 hours in Carmel and 51 hours in Monterey for the Blood Bank program.

During the past year two nurses were enrolled in the American Red Cross and received their Red Cross nurses' pins.

The nursing service volunteered to assist the Public Health Department in giving Salk Vaccine inoculations.

MOTOR SERVICE

By Mrs. Robinson Campbell, Chairman

We now have 19 drivers who are volunteering their time to the Motor Service, with Mrs. Robinson Campbell serving as chairman since last February.

Twice a week the station wagon takes the Gray Ladies to the Fort Ord Hospital with their flowers and cookies for the patients. They also take the Entertainment group to the hospital every Monday night. Transportation was provided to Fort Ord on Armed Forces Day and Flag Day. Each week convalescent patients are taken on sight-seeing tours of the Peninsula and this year transportation was provided for the Gray Ladies and patients to the Rodeo at the Holman Ranch. The drivers stood by during the day to take anyone back who was unable to stay the entire afternoon.

Local transportation is provided in emergencies and the station wagon supplies transportation to and from the Blood Bank for those who would be unable to give blood without this service.

ENTERTAINMENT AND SUPPLY

By Miss Hazel McLellan, Chairman

Entertainment is provided for servicemen in the Fort Ord Hospital every Monday night by this group of volunteers. A variety of programs has been presented during the past year.

An orchestra and singers have gone to the hospital from the Navy School. Mrs. Whitmer has played the piano, and other soloists have appeared. At Christmas time, the choir from the All Saints' Church presented a program that was enjoyed very much.

Games such as bingo and horseracing are played and prizes are given. Refreshments are served every Monday night. These programs are appreciated by the servicemen and all those participating in the entertainment certainly enjoyed themselves.

We would like to have more entertainment along musical lines and would appreciate any volunteers.

A total of 277 hours were served by Hazel McLellan, Ann Flynn, and Nina Jackson.

CANTEEN

By Mrs. Stanley Cummings, Chairman

The Canteen had 22 volunteer workers who served a total of 357 hours this year.

A good portion of this time was devoted to the preparation and serving of complete luncheons to the blood donors at the four Blood Bank drawings held in the American Legion Hall in Carmel. Six hundred luncheons were served.

Other services performed included the serving of coffee and cookies to the patients and their visitors at the Fort Ord Hospital. This latter service was performed the fourth week-end of each month throughout the year.

A letter was sent to us from the Fort Ord Hospital expressing their appreciation of the services performed by the Carmel Canteen, and we would like to commend Miss Nancy Santee and Mrs. Gordon Reid for their extra efforts on this project.

PRODUCTION

By Mrs. Lloyd Wood, Chairman

During the past year the ladies of the Production Room have finished the following articles for Fort Ord Hospitals: 142 hot water bottle covers, 10 afghans, 18 layettes.

Production also provided articles to be distributed by Home Service as follows: 5 layettes, 6 cushion covers, 6 mattress covers.

Other hospitals in the area received: 25 layettes, 260 walking cast socks, 35 toe socks, 60 hot water bottle covers.

STAFF AIDE SERVICE

By Frances Doud, Chairman

There were sixty members active in the Staff Aide Service during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1954 and ending June 30, 1955, who worked a total of 2,608.5 hours.

Mainly their activities were in the Chapter office doing clerical work and keeping records, but they also participated in the Fund Drive and the Blood Program, and in general aided in all Chapter activities whenever needed.

AMBULANCE SERVICE

By Fred J. Mylar

104 members made a total of 93 calls.

The Highway First Aid at the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department performed 15 services.

Carmel Red Cross station wagon visits Cypress Point with soldier-patients from Ft. Ord Hospital.

James Schwabacher At Hill Theatre On October 30

The program for the James Schwabacher recital in the Hill Theatre on Sunday afternoon, October 30, promises rare interest for music lovers and laymen. With Ralph Linsley at the piano, the San Francisco tenor will first sing a Mozart Aria, "The Abduction from the Seraglio." Mr. Schwabacher already has been engaged to sing at three different performances of the Mozart "Requiem" and the opera "Seraglio" for the coming Mozart bi-centennial.

Second on the program will be Schumann's beautiful and not too often heard "Dichterliebe." Then will follow a first performance of three songs by Francis G. Parmentier: "In a Minor Key," "Toujours Amour", and "The Silent." A Reynoldo Hahn group will include "A Chloris", "Quand je fus pris au Pavilion", "Les Rossignol des Lilas", "Les Cygnes", "Spring Song". The recital will conclude with Eleven Limericks by Wallace Berry, California composer now stationed at Fort Ord. According to Mr. Schwabacher, the limericks are "enchanting . . . some of them just a minute long . . . full of humor, charm and imagination."

Tickets for the Schwabacher recital are on sale at Browse Around Music Shop, Graham Music Company, Carmel, and at Abinante's Piano Store, Monterey.

Mary A. Smeeton

Miss Mary Alice Smeeton died in a San Francisco hospital on October 11, at the age of 82. She had been a patient in a local hospital for three weeks before being moved to San Francisco a few days previous to her death.

Miss Smeeton came to live in Carmel in 1944 making her home in El Estudio at San Antonio and Thirteenth Streets. She developed a keen interest in weaving during her Carmel residence and devoted a great deal of time to the creation of fine and original tweeds.

She was a graduate of Columbia University and received her master's degree from the University of California. Miss Smeeton also spent some time in France studying with Madame Curie on radium research problems. She was the author of Practical Microbiology for Nurses, known as Smeeton's Handbook and had been, during her younger days, an instructor in biology at Bellevue Hospital, Presbyterian Hospital and New York General, all in New York City. She also was an instructor in the bacteriology department of the University of California for some years and did research on tuberculosis for the Rockefeller Foundation.

She is survived by two nieces, Miss Helen Smeeton of Oakland and Mrs. W. G. Morris of San Francisco.

Funeral services were held on October 12 in San Francisco followed by burial in Cypress Lawn Cemetery in San Francisco.

TYLERS ON ANNUAL TREK

Each year the Ted Tylers of Pasadena stop off in Carmel on their way north to the U.S.C.—California game. They are expected in Carmel today and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Campbell while they are here. Ted is a builder in the south, and the Tylers lived here for some months several years ago when he was building a modern home on Carmel Point. Mrs. Tyler is the sister of Mrs. Charles McHarry, but will miss her annual visit with her since the McHarrys are on a year's European vacation.

Jensen Twins Arrive

Neil Jensen, Seventh Grade teacher at Sunset School arrived home from the annual parents' meeting last week, barely on time to escort Mrs. Jensen to the Peninsula Community Hospital where twins were born to them on October 11, increasing the future school population by two and making a total of five children for the Jensens. The twins are a boy, Mark Bryan, who weighed four pounds, four ounces, and Martha Kane, who, slightly smaller than her brother, tipped the scales at three pounds, fourteen ounces. Mark and Martha will remain in the hospital for several weeks until they are a little heavier, and in the meantime, Mrs. Jensen is at home with the rest of the children, John, six years old; Carol, four; and Noel, who is two. The whole Jensen family is preparing for the big homecoming of the two babies and most interested in the progress of the twins are Sunset Seventh graders.

Report From Richmond

Mona Williams left Carmel for Virginia, at the end of August, to join her husband, Henry, who has a position with the Children's Home Society in Richmond. This past two weeks her friends in Carmel have received a communal letter from her telling of her delight in her new home in Richmond. "It's one of those old tall, narrow, red brick, pre-civil-war houses," she reports, "with a gilt and brocade parlor—yes parlor, with a grand piano and carved ceiling. All the ceilings are 12 feet high . . . and six fireplaces. I feel a little bit more like Scarlett O'Hara than myself." Henry is doing publicity for the Society, a charitable organization which concerns itself with the welfare of foreign orphans. Both Henry and Mona are planning to drive to Carmel at Christmas time for a brief visit with relatives and friends.

Carol and Bill Brown Return

Bill Brown has been in and out of Carmel all summer but except for two brief visits, Carol, his wife, has stayed at her house on the southern end of Lake Tahoe, supervising building alterations between visits from friends. Now she is back, at least for a month, but hopes to get in another stay at Tahoe before the snow starts. Among her visitors were Bob Gibbon, treasurer of Curtis Publishing Company, who with his wife, Libby (former curator at Carmel Art Association gallery) came out from Philadelphia and were accompanied by Mrs. Gibbon's son, Tim Cass, who is now in his senior year at Yale University. Carol already has next summer's schedule prepared for Tahoe which she says "will include less remodeling."

Sydney Hudson Sets Date

Sydney Hudson, dauhter of Mr. and Mrs. William Luis Hudson, has chosen December 17 for her wedding to John Clinton Walker. The marriage will take place in Carmel Mission with Monsignor O'Connell officiating. Maid of honor will be Ellen Davies, and bridesmaids are to be Mrs. Brooks Walker, Jr., Diane Lafarge, Ruth MacMahon, and Nancy Bardens. Ann McKeever, daughter of Mrs. Jesse Coe of Pebble Beach, will be flower girl. Brooks Walker, Jr., is to be best man for his brother and ushers are to be Wellington Henderson, Jr., Samuel Wright II, Frederick Knoop, William Bucklin III, Ted Engs, Alex Politzer and William George Hudson, Sydney's brother.

Abernethy's Travel, Have Fun

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Abernethy spent last weekend in Coalinga visiting Mr. Abernethy's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Abernethy. They have recently returned from a Canadian jaunt, spending some time in Victoria and traveling by train through the Rockies to Banff and Lake Louise. Now the travel folders are out again and plans are in formation for a Mexican venture. This time the Abernethy's will entrain to Cuernavaca, where they will obtain a car and drive on various side trips to see the surrounding country.

Prepare For Christmas Bazaar

The annual All Saints' Episcopal Church Women's Auxiliary Christmas Bazaar will be held on November 17 in the parish hall. Joint chairmen for the event are Mrs. John Neikirk and Mrs. Gabriel Burnette. Mrs. Mary Giestling will be in charge of the snack bar at luncheon time. Booths will be open from 10:00 o'clock in th morning until 4:00 in the afternoon. Publicity is being handled by Miss Anne Reed. Booth chairmen are: aprons, Mrs. Arthur Dresser; bags, Mrs. M. K. Hall; country store, Mrs. C. E. Ransom; towels, Mrs. Albert Osler; corner cupboard, Mrs. Robert MacDonald; antiques, Mrs. A. C. Bennett; jewelry, Mrs. Isabelle Terhune; garden corner, Miss Flora Stewart; white elephants, Mrs. Frank Putnam; pot holders, Mrs. R. H. Carney; pick-a-package, Mrs. Joseph McKay; toddlers' apparel, Mrs. R. J. Townsend; toys, Miss Edith Bohm and Mrs. Emmy Little.

The hand-made gift booth, in charge of Mrs. G. Furneaux White, will for the first time this year bear specially printed labels on the items for sale. Many of the items have been made by the sewing group of the Auxiliary at its bimonthly meetings under the chairmanship of Mrs. Chester Strickland assisted by Mrs. C. A. Trumbly.

Mrs. Wiegman Casualty

Mrs. Bea Wiegman met the parents of her seventh grade class for the first time on last Wednesday evening, and they would like to think that it was not such an unnerving experience that it contributed to her fall in the school patio on Thursday, because she cracked a bone in her arm, and in consequence has spent a painful week.

Youth Center Events

Officers who will comprise the young people's board at the Carmel Youth Center for 1955-56 were elected last Friday evening and are: Merle Pitman, president; Hazel Tice, vice-president; Betty Colman, secretary; Dick Ogden, treasurer; Judy Paplow, historian, and Gene Gawain, sergeant-at-arms.

Tonight at 7:15 o'clock Hondo, a colored movie featuring John Wayne, will be shown at the Center though the courtesy of the Carmel Rotary and Lions clubs.

Tomorrow afternoon at 5:00 o'clock a car pool will set out for the King City game. Any persons who would like to drive to the game and have room in their car for passengers are asked to telephone the Youth Center, 7-3285.

Saturday evening there will be a juke box dance for Youth Center members from 8:00 o'clock till midnight. At this time the drawing for the portable radio will be made and proceeds go to the equipping of the study hall.

Monday evening the Car Club will meet with Mark Lusier and Bob Wood as advisors.

Pop Posing

Pop Smith has settled down after his European jaunt this summer (which celebrated his eighth birthday), and reports he has returned to his "normal way of living". That, at present, includes golfing and a two-week engagement as a model for the adult education art class on Monday and Wednesday evenings at Sunset School.

Special Study for League

A special study session is being scheduled for the League of Women Voters on Wednesday at 1:00 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. E. O. Sisson. Title of the discussion will be: "Do you know your responsibilities and privileges as a juror?" League members who have been members of former and present grand juries will hold an informal round-table, giving highlights and experiences of their jury duty. Eben Whittlesey, Carmel attorney, will give a brief history of the jury system, and will lead the discussion group. Round table members will be Mrs. Robert McDonald, Mrs. Edwin Tucker, Mrs. Edward Campbell and Mrs. Howard Clark.

Daughter For the Malcolms

Karen Leslie, born at Fort Ord Hospital on October 8 to Lieutenant and Mrs. Neil T. Malcolm of the Royal Canadian Navy, is their first daughter and second child, and the only member of the family to claim the United States as her birthplace. Lieutenant Malcolm is spending two years studying ordinance engineering at the Naval Postgraduate School. The American government extends this courtesy to the Canadian Navy, as Canada, at present, has no such facilities for study available in this field. Before coming to Carmel last winter the Malcolms were stationed in Ottawa, Ontario, and they both claim Manitoba as their native province. Mrs. Malcolm's home is in Winnipeg and Lt. Malcolm comes from Russell. Karen's older brother is three and a half year old Lorne George.

Marilyn Grover Engaged

Marilyn Grover, daughter of Mrs. G. Goodwin Grover, announced her engagement to Robert Noel Heard on Friday evening to a group of friends invited to her home. Over the weekend the same announcement was made to fellow members of the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club at Cambria Pines.

One of the few women commercial pilots in the United States, Marilyn, first attended school in Seattle, then Stephens College in Missouri and the University of Seattle. During her flying career she was co-pilot on planes flying from Seattle to Alaska, Florida to Caribbean ports and Oakland to Alaska. Since coming to Carmel two years ago she has been employed with the Monterey Sand Company. She was at one time an instructor in flying at Monterey Airport.

Her fiance's parents are Dr. Wesley R. Heard of Monterey and Mrs. Gladys S. Heard of San Marino. He attended Midland School, the University of Washington, and, following service in the Naval Air Corps, is studying engineering at Monterey Peninsula College.

No date has been set for the wedding, but plans are being made for a late fall ceremony.

Spiritual demands on man for growth and progress will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Probation after Death" at Christian Science services Sunday.

Christ Jesus' emphasis on regeneration will be set forth in readings from the Bible including the following from John (3:3): "Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the following passage will be among those read (291:12-13): "Universal salvation rests on progression and probation, and is unattainable without them."

The Golden Text is from John (5:21): "As the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them; even so the Son quickeneth whom he will."

Secret Of Pio Junco's Beautiful Glazes Is Painstaking Work

satisfactory flesh tones. The undertones of color emerge at this point, Pio claims. He adds that it is impossible to use commercial materials for this type of painting, that one must mix his own colors, and that frankly, most artists are unwilling to take the time and trouble to do what is necessary for this type of painting.

Junco says that in the last decade or so, a type of mysticism has begun to creep into his work. He laughs and says, however, that this is merely a feeling which pervades the canvas, and should not be confused with symbolism. "Very often, for instance," he points out, "I'll put a fish in a canvas, let's say, merely to cover space, and because it helps the balance. Immediately people begin to look for its significance. It has none."

Junco's only real experience with the commercial world came during a one-year period when he did covers for Good Housekeeping, Saturday Evening Post, Cosmopolitan and Colliers. He also did the first woman — Queen Elizabeth — printed on a cover by Time magazine. The demands of art directors became too much for him, eventually, and he decided to try portrait work.

Again he was quite successful, doing portraits among others of Henry Ford, Dorothy Parker, Tyrone Power, Charles Boyer and many more. "The social life that seemed to be expected to go with this finally got me down," Pio confesses and with a sigh, he gave it up—since the pay was good.

Currently Junco is running the Hidden Village Gallery in Monterey, where he lives quietly with his second wife and oldest son. In addition he is completing a coffee house which will be a unique experiment of its kind.

But most of all he is continuing to paint—beautiful glazed works of lantern-jawed Spanish men, and flashing-eyed women with grace—pieces that look as if they would be right at home in the Prado in the heart of Madrid.

COLLISION AT INTERSECTION

Cars driven by May Elizabeth Pollack of 1701 Jackson Place, Seaside, and Patricia May Fugazi, Route 2, Box 341, Carmel, collided this morning at 9:00 o'clock at the intersection of San Carlos and Eighth Streets. May Pollack was cited as failing to stop at a stop sign. Considerable damage, not yet estimated, was done to both cars.

Hi Chatter

By Pari Storch

Last night at 7:30 o'clock the Latin Club held a party for the first year Latin students at the high school. They were welcomed by Latin Club president Churchill Carmalt and social chairman Trulee Scarlett.

Among the activities were the playing of games such as charades in Latin and singing the Gaudeamus Igitur—"Let us rejoice". This is the ancient students' song.

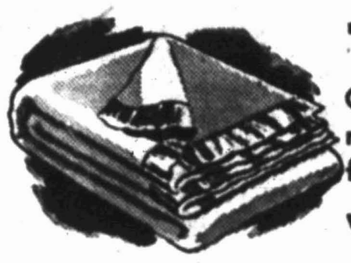

Preparations are now being made for the Benefit Fashion Show to be held at the high school on November 5. The show is sponsored by Girls' League to raise money for a foreign student next year. Boys, as well as girls, will model.

Joan Hamilton is the general chairman. Committee chairmen already busy with plans are seniors, Sam Morse and Lucy Carmalt, arrangements; juniors, Churchill Carmalt and Luraine Deering, decorations; sophomores, Jerry Stuefloten, Neil Giarratana and Suzann Pilot, publicity and tickets, and freshmen, Sam Farr and Wendy Draper, refreshments. The band for the dancing will be made up of Pacific Grove High School students.

This noon a "Cat Hop" was sponsored by the Junior Class in the high school gymnasium. The theme was pink and black and all "cats" were urged to attend for a noon hour full of bop.

The Junior cake sale last Friday was such a success that there will be another one tomorrow.

Best I Ever Had

This stunning 3 bedroom, 2 bath home all on one floor with sweeping view of Point Lobos and the Pacific is the most functional home I have ever listed for sale throughout my long experience in th Real Estate Business, and at a BARGAIN.

The bedrooms are all good size, and the Master Bedroom opens onto an enclosed and secluded garden with a miniature Japanese waterfall with indirect lighting which was designed and installed for the owner by a nationally known Landscape Architect.

The livingroom is 20 by 35 (perfect balance), with a beautiful big fireplace and high open beam ceilings. The separate dining room is 15 by 18. Lots of storage space, picture windows and extras too numerous to mention here.
